During the fight against the novel coronavirus (新冠病毒), many nurses were busy looking after their patients. They work day and night. They are very brave and kind.

When we are sick or injured, nurses are always there to take care of us. May 12 is International Nurses Day (国际护士节). Let's say thanks to them.

Why does International Nurses Day fall on May 12? This is because May 12 is the birthday of Florence Nightingale (南丁格尔). She is the founder of modern nursing.

Nightingale grew up in the UK in the 1800s. Her family was very rich. At that time, girls like her often spent time reading, playing and housework. But Nightingale was different. She wanted to help sick people. So when she turned 16, she became a nurse. It was not easy, because being a nurse was not a good job at that time. Nurses didn't earn much money. And the hospitals they worked in were dangerous and dirty.

Nightingale didn't change her mind. She went to Germany to learn nursing skills. After she came back, she opened her own hospital. The hospital was clean and the patients there got good care. In the hospital, all of the staff got good salaries (工资).

In 1854, a war broke out. Nightingale led a team to help soldiers (士兵). She helped them take baths, cleaned their wounds (伤口) and made food for them. At night, when everyone was sleeping, she visited the soldiers to make sure they were comfortable. Nightingale carried a lamp with her on her night visits. The soldiers called her "The Lady with the Lamp (提灯女神)".

Nurses don't just help you take your temperature and give you injections (打针). They have lots of different jobs. Some nurses help doctors. Some nurses help people understand health problems, such as how to take their medicine. Now there are about 28,000,000 nurses in the world. But they are not enough. In Africa, there are only 9 nurses for every 10,000 people. When a disease spreads there, the nurses have to work very hard. People need more nurses.
